

Part: Listening 3

Archaeology research project at an Ancient Roman villa

The villa was first discovered in the 1920s and was turned into a tourist attraction.

In 1957, the site was reburied, but now an archaeological trust is re-examining it.

1. As a result of ongoing {{blank}}, the villa is at risk of destruction.

Answer: urban development

2. The number of rooms in the villa devoted to {{blank}} was exceptionally high.

Answer: bathing

3. In 1924, a {{blank}} was built over the mosaic to protect it.

Answer: concrete roof

4. The part of the mosaic that is in better condition than expected is the {{blank}}.

Answer: dining room

5. Finding {{blank}} at the villa confirmed that the occupant was an important member of society.

Answer: a gold ring

6. Plans are in place to allow {{blank}} to view the mosaic before it is reburied.

Answer: local schools

7. Excavators in the 1920s failed to identify the existence of buildings constructed of {{blank}}.

Answer: wood